Compare and Contrast

Read the passage. Then use the Venn diagram to compare and contrast the inventors you read about.

The Wright brothers and Robert Fulton are famous inventors. They all built machines that help people get from one place to another. On August 17, 1807, people in New York City were laughing at Fulton when his steamboat did not run at first. But the Clermont finally worked and made river travel important for America. Orville and Wilbur Wright looked to the sky to help people travel. On December 17, 1903, the first powered aircraft, The Wright Flyer, made four successful flights in Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. Although they had many failures, these inventors were also brave to keep trying.
